Mollie Crow of Springfield, Mo., Tells a Strange Story.

BHE APPEALS TO SHERIFF STAED TO HELP HER FIND HER PARENTS,

The Girl Is 24 Years of Age and Quite Prepossessing-Mrs. Crow Says That the Young Woman Is Her Daughter, and When Asked About the Remark able Tale of Abduction Falls to Weep ing and Bays the Girl Is Losing Her

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 18.—Several days ago Mollie Crow, a very pretty girl, 24 years old, called upon Justice of the Peace Fath and told him a story of abduction venge and murder which, for romantic conception, has scarcely, if ever, been equaled, even in the wildest imaginings of fiction. Her story was told in a clear, lucid manner, carrying with it a plausibility hard to connect with such improbable happenings. The roumstances related by the girl she emount, as far as she could recollect, of her own life. She sought the assistance of the astice in freeing her from the thraldom of a man who she claims is not her mother. ough she has always stood in the position o parent to her, and in finding her true parent, from whom, she alleges, for motives of re-senge, she was kidnapped while yet a venge, she was kidnapped while yet a baby.

The girl is a pronounced blonde with dreamy blue eyes, and luxuriant golden hair. She is of siender build, graceful in movement, and is considered somewhat of a beauty. Several years ago she came here from Texas with a Mrs. Crow, the mother of two other girls, and whose daughter until recently she was always presumed to be. The family are in humble circumstances and have lived a hand-to-mouth sort of existance. Moille is the eldest of the three girls, whose ages range from 17 to 24 years. Recently she parted from the family, but her reasons for doing so did not come to light until she related her peculiar story to Justice Fath.

HOW SHE BECAME SUSPICIOUS.

HOW SHE BECAME SUSPICIOUS, girl claims that for years she her mother, and daughter, and obstinately refused to believe her dead. Her true parents she believes to have been wealthy, for the mysterious unknown remarked with sarcastic delight upon the difference in the surroundings amid which the child was forced to live, and those which would have been hers were she in her proper station. Mention was also made of a package which Mrs. Crow was cautioned to carefully preserve, as it meant money in case the girl died.

The possibility of Molite ever suspecting the truth concerning her parentage was truth concerning her parentage was discussed by the two conspira-and the necessity for at once ting hes out of the way' lid she ever make the discovery was putting he so out of the way' should she ever make the discovery was fully resolved upon. In the interview the girl stated she learned that her right name was Ina Carlton or Carlson, and that her mother's Christian name was Inac. She also learned that she has one brother, whose life at the time of the conversation was said to be devoted to searching for his missing sister—herself. When the interview was over the woman left, and the girl states that she has never set eyes upon her since. Mrs. Crow, she alleges, has always treated her with the greatest cruelty, in marked contrast to her treatment of the other two girls, who pass as her sisters.

Justice Fath told the girl that unless she could offer some more tangible evidence of the truth of her story he was afraid nothing could be done, and she left the court-room with bowed head and tearful eyes, despondency and hopelessness being most apparent in her dejected mien. For years, she said, since she heard the conversation which enlightened her as to the truth of her parentage, she had waited and searched in secret for more informatin until broken hearted and despondent she had decided to appeal to the law for aid, trusting that publicity would effect the end which all other means had failed to achieve.

"My right name is ina Cariton or Carison, I am uncertain just which," she began.

"The first thing I can remember was when we lived in an out of the way place, a quarter of a mile from Washington Springs, one and one-half miles from Glades Spring, Va. When about 10 years of age I was in my room late one night and Mrs. Grow thought I was asleep. Mrs. Crow was in an adjoining room and a strange women came in. After a few words this strange woman, who was dressed in deep black, came into my room and looked at me. As she did so she threw up her hands and said: "Good heavens, she looks just like her mother." They then went back to the next room and began talking. Mrs. Crow hissed out: Not so loud or she will hear you." Yes, said the strange woman, but she scares me, he is so much like her mother." Then after pause she added: "They have been hunting or her for ten years. Her mother will not believe she is dead. It is raily too bad for her to live in a lace like this when she has a good home, fit then revenge is sweet, both of them uckled at this. The woman said 'she,' leaning my mother, 'is grieving herselfaway had has placed quite a sum of money at her recently to find your true mother, as you call her?" the reporter asked.

"Yes, I did all that I could and what I thought best," was the reply. "When I first heard that conversation fits true importance was not altogether clear to me, though I was glad that Mrs. Crow was not my mother. She always abused me cruelly and I had but little love for her, at all events of such a character as a child should feel for her mother. I wanted all the to time find my true mother. And in my little heart I ever had a longing to discover the direction in which she lived, when it seemed to me I could walk to her. I always felt that should I ever meet her I should recognize her at once. I imagine that I am still much like what she was. As I grew older, however, I began to realize that I must get in the proof of what I had heard, something more definite, and I used to watch for every opportunity to pry into drawers and boxes generally kept locked in the hope that I might some day find a paper or some article which would give me a better clew as to my identity. Alas, the hope was a vain one. I have listened and spled and watched, but to no purpose, except to arouse suspicions and to meet reoulfs and treatment which still made me more confident than ever of the truth of what I tell you. I am afraid that if documentary proof ever did exist it has been carefully destroyed probably years ago."

"Have appealed to Justice Fath, but he can do exishing. Cod knows!"

"Have you any future plan you will follow?"

"I have appealed to Justice Fath, but he can do nothing. God knows I feel my helplessness, but what can I do? A woman is so much more helpless than a man would be under such circumstances. But one hope remains. If my mother is still alive I am confident, from what that mysterious woman said, that she will never give up the search, and if my story only reaches her ears we may be reunited. I have worked so long in secret without avail; now I want my story known. I get terribly discouraged at times, but only success or death can end my search for my mother. Only the other day I wrote to the Sheriff of St. Louis, telling him my story at length and begging him to assist me. I have received no reply but trust that he will not Ignore my request. I am going to write to other cities and States as I get the time, and shall never 'give up' while I live."

Mrs. Crow was seen and positively claimed while I live."

Mrs. Crow was seen and positively claimed Mollie, or Ina, as the girl persists in calling herself, as her own daughter. She wept bitterly when the reporter announced the purport of his visit, and at first begged to be spared a discussion of the case on the ground that she "did not want to say a word against the girl." She does not attempt to explain the story, merely denying in an emphatic manner that it has any foundation in fact. She thinks that her daughter's mind must be unhinged, though this statement was made with apparent unwillingness.

Inquiry at the Sheriff's office revealed the fact that a communication from the girl Inquiry at the Sheriff's office revealed the fact that a communication from the girl, Mollie Crow or Ina Carlton had been received by mall several days ago. The document covers some seventeen pages of foolscap, and sets forth her remarkable and romantic story at great length. Init the girl calls upon God to witness the truth of the facts stated therein and beseches the Sheriff in the name of sympathy and humanity to render her all the assistance in his power in her search for her lost mother.

The writer commences by stating that her right name is lina Carlton, or Carlson, and that years ago she was stolen from her mother for mothers of revenge. that years ago she was stole mother for motives of revenge.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Excelsior Springs Selected as the Next Place of Meeting-A Wrangle.

The second day's session of the Twenty Convention of , the Annual Knights of Pythias convened at 9:30 co'clock this morning in the Masonic Hall, Seventh and Market streets. Grand Chancellor Wagoner rapped the convention to order, and after the roil call the question of the next place of meeting was brought up. The St. Louis delegation introduced a resolution favoring Hannibal, Mo. The country delegates were opposed to Hannibal, and Excelsior Springs was brought up as a suitable place for the holding of the trenty-fourth annual meeting. A vote was taken, and Excelsior Springs was unanimously chosen as the next place of needing. When the vote was announced a general uproar followed, quite a number of delegates making a decided pritest against the holding of the next conention at the place chosen, arguing that there was no place in the town to hold a convention. A representative of the Excelsior Springs Lodge explained that there was a large opera-house in the city where the convention could be held. He stated, however, by was of explanation, that the auditorum where the convention must be held was on the first floor. This assertion brought out another discussion, as according to the constitution no sessions 'clock this morning in the Masonic must be held was on the first fisor. This assertion brought out another discussion, as according to the constitution no sessions of the Grand Lodge can be held on the ground fisor of any building. The representatives of the Excelsior Springs Lodge, however, claimed that it had been unanimously agreed to hold the next convention in that city and desired no further arguments on the question insamuch as it had been practically decided by the Grand Lodge. While it is absolutely certain that the next meeting will be held at Excelsior Springs, the matter has been referred to Grand Chancellor Wagoner, who will visit the place selected and view the building where it is proposed the convention shall be held. The twenty-fourth annual convention will be held the third Tuesday in October, 1891.

The next order of business was the selection of an official organ for the State. The matter was referred to a committee, but it is generally understood that the Pythian Voice of St. Louis will be selected.

At 11:20 o'clock, the committee appointed a year ago to get the expression of members as to the advisability of constructing a Pythian home, made its report. The report showed that a majority of the Pythians were in favor of building a home and nine-tenths of them favored St. Louis as the place of location. The report was received with tremendous applause, followed by criticisms from numerous delegates. While no definite action was taken on the committee's report, it is generally conceded that the Grand Lodge will authorize the erection of a Pythian Home in St. Louis within the next two years. The convention adjourned at 12:30 until 2, when a Supreme representative will be chosen. For four years past Mr. W. A. Radeliffe has held the position, also acting the convention of the property of 12:30 until 2, when a Supreme representative will be chosen. For four years past Mr. W. A. Radeliffe has held the position, also acting, by virtue of his office, as Private Secretary to Grand Supreme Chancellor Blockwell of Henderson, Ky. There appears to be considerable opposition to Mr. Radeliffe, and the friends of Mr. E. M. Harber of Trenton, Mo., Grand Chancellor of P. C. Adelphia Lodge, No. 38, are pushing him forward for the position.

Another question of considerable importance will be sprung at the evening session—that of the bond of the Grand Exchequer, which at the present is $10,000. At the morning session certain delegates protested against the present sitpulated bond, arguing that while the bond was only $10,000, the Exchequer at times had in his possession over $25,000. A resolution will be introduced providing that a new bond be furnished at every annual meeting, the amount of which shall be determined by the Finance Committee after it has ascertained the amount of money in the treasury. Before the convention adjourns delegates to the next Supreme Lodge of the World, which convenes in Washington, D. C., August, 1894, will be seletced.

"Judge Cunningham, you may proceed," said Judge Withrow."

"Mr. John C. Robinson, do you know either party in the suit"

"Yes, it would be well," suggested Judge Withrow, "to tell the jurors who the parties are and what the nature of the suit is."

THE SILVER CAUCUS

Democrats of the Senate in a Peck of Trouble About It.

THE REQUISITE NAMES FOR THE CALL HAVE BEEN OBTAINED.

And the Meeting Will Be Held, But the Bother Is as to the Time for Its Sitting and the Matter of Inviting the House Democrats - Congress and Washing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The Democrats in the Senate are in a good deal of trouble over a question of a caucus on the silver question and great secrecy is observed upon the subject. It is learned, however, this morning that the requisite number of name have been obtained to the call for a caucus and that one will be held. The question seems to be as to the time of holding the caucus and also on the proposition inviting the Democrats of the House to join those of the Senate in an effort to deto join those of the Senate in an effort to de-clare a party policy. This latter proposition the silver men will never agree to as the Democrats of the House have already passed on the question in a very decided way and the silver Sena-tors insist it has passed out of ther province. tors insist it has passed out of ther province. The repeal men of the Senate are not willing to be bound by caucus and are disposed to have it deferred for some days yet, until, as they hope, public sentiment will have affected the Senate. The Caucus Committee, of which Mr. Gorman is chairman, are in session this morning, with the call for the caucus before them, considering the whole question. ing the whole question.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 18.—Senator Voorhees said to-day in reply to a question by a reporter that he would make a new effort by a reporter that he would make a new effort to continue for the present the recess system inaugurated last evening. He sandard plan now is to have the sandard his room 10 to 60 0000 and that he is of the continue of the sandard his room 10 turning out work and getting rid of the long speeches. It is, he thinks, fairer to all parties, and will have a tendency to keep senators in better humor than the night work, which is wearying upon the temper as well as the physique. Mr. Voorhees expresses the opinion that the end of the long debate is near, and intimates that the present week may close it.

SENATE PROCEEDINGS.

Morgan Took the Floor and Spoke on Dolph's Motion.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The Senate resumed its session at 10 o'clock this morning at the expiration of the recess taken yesterday wealing.

Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.) took the noor on the motion of Mr. Dolph to amend the journal so as to snow the presence of Mr.
Allen when the roll was called at 6:30 o'clock Monday evening, that Senator having failed to answer when his r was called. yesterday by Mr. Hill from the United States Supreme Court reports might be twisted and perverted into a support of his (Mr. Hill's) position, as a judicial decision it could not be placed in that category except by the artfulness of an astute politician. A fair, minded lawyer could not do it. The supreme Court merely decided that the House of Representatives under the Constitution had the right to make their own rules for ascertaining and recording the fact that a quorum was present. There were men in the world whose consciences were so easy that they could follow the Supreme Court in all its decisions, who could bend their consciences to any purpose that political necessity required at any time, but such men had no just conception of the rights of the representatives of the people and of the States. Such persons were ready on any occasion, when it served their purpose and promoted their political prosperity or their desire to deprive a minority of all its right sand all its powers in order that their wills may have supreme sway in the country. It might suit men of that class to follow the Supreme Court around and be willing to take the oath of allegiance to the opinions of the Supreme to-day and change the oath to-mortow when the decision of the court changed. That, Mr. Morgan said, did not suit him, and he referred to the decision of that Court that no paper money issued by the Government oy a national bank could be legal tender, which was not agreeable to a great many person in the United States. Thereupon. he said, Congress with great liberality increased the court from 7 to 9 for what purpose it was not for him to say, but the people of the United States, or a great many of them believed it was done in order to get men upon the bench who would reverse that decision and decide that paper money obligations issued by the Government were legal tender. Mr. Hoar (Rep.) of Massachusetts said the nominations of the two new judges were sent to the Senate before the legal tender decision was announced.

The attorney for Mrs. Howell tried to establish the fact that Mr. Howell had about $20,000 in property which he had under cover in the names of other persons. Mr. Howell stoutly asserted that he had no property whatever, either in his own name or in the names of other people. This did not seem to satisfy the opposing attorney, who dwelt upon the point most persistently.

The examination and cross-examination of the witnesses took up nearly all the morning session.

MISS HOPKINS' CONTRACT. The Pastime Management Claims She Had None-She Will Bring Suit. The trouble between the Pastime Athletic Club and Miss Florence V. Hopkins is still a long way from settlement, and while it is settled fact that the club will have ladies' class, Miss Hopkins will not be ladies' class, Miss Hopkins will not be the instructress. The members of the house committee to whom the business of making arrangements with Miss Hopkins was left claim the lady has no contract, and stand prepared to defend their position through the courts. Mr. Adill Sherwood, Chairman of the committee, when seen this morning, refused to discuss the matter, saying, "I do not care to be interviewed upon this subject. I may be called upon to protect the club's position in the court and do not wish to talk about it,"

The correspondence between Miss Hopkins and the club is not of any especial interest. Miss Hopkins bases her claim on the fact that the club made a proposition to her in writing, and which she accepted after they hitched over the signing of a contract. The club informed her that all negotiations were off as soon as they failed to agree upon a contract.

The general impression is that Miss Hop-

The general impression is that Miss Hopkins came West after consulting with an attorney, and has decided to sue upon the letter which she claims is as good as a contract. So far Miss Hopkins has not entered suit, but has annonced her intention of doing so. Miss Hopkins' friends, many of them who are in the P. A. C. and a great many in the Camera Club, are said to have advised the lady to start a class in opposition to the P. A. C. ladies department if that organization refuses to compromise with her.

WHEAT HIGHER A Good Demand Causes Prices

The wheat market was decidedly stronger to-day and a much better feeling prevailed. Oash wheat rose a cent, selling at 85%, December was also stronger, although not in the same proportion. Millers bought freely of all grades and the demand from all quarters was better than it has been for some time past. There was little outside speculation, but local speculation was more active than it has been.

In reply to two letters sent by Deputy Comptroiler Sturgeon to President McMath of the Board of Public Improvements the fol-lowing letter was received by the Comptroller this morning. It is interesting, as giving a synopsis of the city's wants in the way of public buildings and bridges!

87. Louis, Oct. 16, 1893. Hon. Isaac H. Sturgeon, Comptroller:

Sir:-in reply to yours of June 22 and Oct. 11, asking for estimates of the funds needed to supply the needs of the city in the way of public buildings and bridges over railway tracks, I submit the following the comptrollers.

Grand total fer buildings and bridges, $4,050,000.
As to the necessity for these bridges and expenditures for damages, I can only say that those enumerated, except Chouteau avenue and Clark avenue, were deemed necessary from the beginning. Chouteau avenue has come into the light by natural growth of business sand Clark avertice on account of the new Union Depot. The construction cost of the latter is supposed to be provided for in ordinance authorizing the location.

The Grand avenue item is one not often taken into account, but, as foreseen, it is a case parallel to the Twenty-first experience. The cost guess—the change is authorized location—a mere hence included in list. The other wants eximated would, I think, satisfy the demand fer say ten years to come. As to eleemosynary institutions, they will always be filled to and beyond capacity, and always called for more. My estimates are for a reasonable allowance and conremplate continuance of the present policy. If paupers are to go to another locality, the estimate must be increased $100,000.

President.

Comptroller Sturgeon does not see how the needed improvements can be made in any reasonable time unless the tax-payers are willing to submit to the imposition of a small additional tax for a few years.

"How could this be done?"

"Sec. 11 of art. 10 of the State constitution provides:

For the purpose of erecting public buildings in counties, cites or school districts, the rate of taxation herein limited may be increased, and the purpose for whish it is intended shall have been submitted to a vote of the people, and two-thirds of the qualined voters of such county, city or school district, voting at such election, shall vote therefor. Under this provision the Municipal Assem-bly can submit the question for the decision of the voters.

If we can provide by a small tax for the public buildings the municipal revenue will be sufficient to take care of the bridges.

For the credit and reputation of the city it is our duty to complete the new City Hall and place our eleemosynary institutions in a better state of repair than they are at present.

Angry at Marks. Building Commissioner Reid this morning

sent a communication to Mayor Walbridge asking by what authority Dr. Heine Marks, Superintendent of the City Hospital, had prevented the contractor from going over the defective work of the grafiatoid floor in the operating room at the pew surgical ward. The work was ordered by a committee of the Board of Charity Commissioners and was to cost nothing additional to the city. The contractor was merely to complete his contract.

To this communication the Mayor has not yet responded, but one sent by him to Health Commissioner Homan yesterday explains the situation fully. The Mayor, in answer to a letter from Dr. Homan, informs him that he may order the contractor to complete his job if he saw fit and the work is to cost the city nothing additional. He further informs the Health Commissioner that the City Counselor has advised him that the Board of Charity Commissioners have no power or authority to order repairs at any of the city institutions, The refusal of Dr. Marks to permit the contractor to go abead with his work has aroused the ire of the Board of Charity Commissioners who gave the order through the committee and a meeting is announced for this evening to discuss the matter. It is presumed that they are not aware of the City Connector's opinion to the Mayor, but the Board of Charity Commissioners have shown by their past actions that they do not take much stock in the law as laid down by Mr. Marshall. going over the defective work of the granatoid floor in the operating room at the

From a source believed to be perfectly re-able the information was received this af-smoon that the missing American Express ackage contained $250,000 instead of $0,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—James C. Fargo, President of the American Express Co., who was seen last night at his home, No. 56 Park avenue, said that the amount recently stolen from that company is $12,000. It was part of package of $30,000 en route to New Orleans.

"The money left here all right," he said, "and we connot now account for its disappearance. We only know that when the shibment was counted in New Orleans it said, "and we connot now account for its disappearance. We only know that when the shipment was counted in New Orleans it was short $22,000. We have taken steps to apprehend whoever is guilty."

General Superintendent Thomas A. Ritson was seen at his home in Bensonhurst last evening. He had not heard of the theft.

"Such a steal," he said, "is utterly impossible, as money to New Orleans is sent in a sealed safe and is not opened until the end of the journey is reached. We have got it down so fine that we are perfectly protected against any any tampering. We have had no money taken in transit in ten years. We adopted years ago the sealed safe with a time combination lock and since then losses have been entirely confined to train robberies. I have heard of no theft and if there had been any we would certainly have heard from our New York shippers."

General Agent Robert H. Dumbleion is the man at this end who holds the combination of the New Grieens safe. He said last night to a Post-Dispatch reporter that no theft could have occurred without his knowledge. "Only two persons," he said, "know the combination of the New Grieans agest and myself. He doesn't know it until I telegraph to him, so I feel pretty sure that nobody could have got any New Iork money on the way to New Orleans. The safe could not have been opened at St. Louis."

One of the biggest express robberles where force was not used was that perpetrated Nov. 19, 1892, by George J. Bagley, a messenger in the employe of the United States Express Co. He took two packages, each containing $50,000, from a car on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway, and hid the money in a hay mow near Davenport Io. Then he went at once to Chicago where, within an hour after his arrival, he was arrested.

New York sent $35,000 to Galveston last November, which had apparently turued into brown paper when it reached its destination. Kountz Bros., bankers. sent $10,000 of it, and the National Bank $25,000, all on the same train. So far as known, the robber was never detect

IT CONTAINED $250,000.

LOCAL OFFICERS RETICENT.

They Will Not Discuss the Robbery Except to Say Reports Are Exaggerated. The officials of the American Express Co. In this city are at their wits' ends over the loss of the package. If they have any theories as to what became of it their own bosoms. The only announcement their own bosoms. The only announcement that can be wrung from them is that it was not a $50,000 package, and that the newspapers have been away off in their accounts of the affair. Fresident Trumbull made that statement today to a Post-Dispatch reporter, and in answer to questions said that the amount stolen was smaller than the nm named. How much smaller be declined to state. "If we tell the reporters our affairs," said he, "It would defeat the objects we have in view, and until we find the package or learn how it was stolen I shall decline to discuss the matter. Of course if we clear the affair up we may tell you about it."

Agent Dodd was equally uncommunicative and his way of evading questions was so like that of the President that it was plain that nothing was to be understanding that nothing was to be understanding that nothing was to be understand that Special Guard Korzendorfer, who guarded the empty safe, which he supposed contained the money, from New York to New Orleans, was "out on the road" to-day, but the young man's father stated that his son was in town and that he was driving one of the express company's wagons. This information was corroborated by other employees of the company, who did not know that any statements to the contrary had been made. Korzendorfer could not be found, but no steps have been taken, so far as the police know, to place him under arrest, and it is therefore believed that the company's officials attach no suspicions to him. Chief Desmond says that no application for assistance in recovering the money has been made to the police department, Messenger Crowley, in whose care the package was, has been in the city for the past two days, and has had several consultations with the President. He says he doesn't know anything about the money or, how it got out of the safe, and Gaard Korzendorfer also denies having any knowledge of how the package disappeared.

Cured of a Bad Case of Scrofula

Scrofula permeates humanity. It is thoroughly infused into the blood. Scarcely a man is wholly free from it, in one form or another. It clings tenaciously and will never leave its victim till driven off by the power of a good blood purifier like Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine cures scrofula promptly, surely, thoroughly. Thousands of people say so. For instance, read this

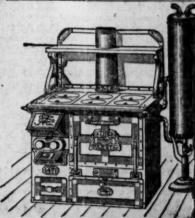

"I am justified in thinking frood's Sarsape rilla a splendid medicine by my own ex-perience with it. I was a great suffer-from scrofula, having dreadful sores i my ears and on my head, sometimes lik-large boils, discharging all the time. M husband insisted that I take Hood' Sarsaparilla. At the first bottle

Thomas Sherrick, who was admitted to the institution this morning, is the most hovel. The man's eyes actually dance in his head; not the conventional dance alluded to every day, but a sort of jig, which causes them to leap back and forth in their sockets. Dr. Marks has arrived at no satisfactory diagnosis and can only say that it is the result of some nervous disorder, the nature of which he cannot even surmise. Sherrick is a coal miner from Pennsylvania, and has lived the greater part of his life under ground. He says that he is 31 years old, that he does not drink, and that until three weeks ago he was never sick in his life. He was awakened one morning with shooting pains above his eyes and since then he has been the victim of various optical illusions to say nothing of the pain caused by the irolicking propensities of his eye-balls. The unfortunate man is also losing his voice.

When seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter this morning, Sherrick was lying on a cot and holding his hands to his eyes, which he felt would pop out unless he restrained them. settling a difference between the association and those brewing companies. The Home Brewery it seems would not sign an agreement relative to drivers and fremen, and the committee is instructed, in case of their still refusing to sign, to order a boycott on the product of that brewery.

When seen by a reporter Mr. Stevens, secretary and treasury of the company, stated that he had not jet seen the committee—had not in fact heard of the association's action. ## BAD QUALITY OF GAS.

ity of burning fluid being furnished by the Gas company. The illuminating quality is Gas company. The illuminating quality is up to the candle-power demanded by the ordinance, but the increase in brilliance gained at the expense of the purity of the gas.

Sanitary Commissioner Francis was nearly driven from home a week ago by a leakage in his meter. "The stench was absolutely frightful," said the Sepitary Commissioner to-day. "It made every one in the house sick. What caused the stench? The poor quality of the gas. It is evidently a cheap water gas made from crude oil and is full of impurities. I know that the men working in trenches laying gas pipes have to relieve each other at short intedvals, the odor of the gas is so poisonous. Of course I think something ought to be done in the matter. The city ordinance requires the supervisor of lighting to test the quality as well as the illuminating power of the gas, but at present Mr. O'Reilly is handicapped by having no place provided for him to make the test."

Supervisor O'Reilly when asked about the matter said: "The light runs above the illuminating power demanded by the ordinance. As to its purity I can say nothing. We have as much right to analyze the gas as to test it, but I have no place to make the test. If the city would fix up and plaster this lumber room of my office, a thing that could be done at small expense, the analysis could be made. The thing ought certainly to be done, for there is an immense amount of impurities, especially in water, that escape combustion and float off into the air."

There is much sickness in Carondelet a present, which is attributed by the physicians to the fact that the people in the Stein stree sewer district, the largest sewer district in Carondelet, have not yet made sewer con-nections, in consequence of a dispute be-tween them and the city as to the amount of

The truth is not to be expected from a political organ, but some approximation to it would be a pleasing and profitable variation from the rule of inaccuracy.

A LEGITIMATE RESULT.

St. Louis was not saved from the worst numiliation when Patrolman Dundon barely averted the lynching of a negro ravisher by a mob within the limits of the city yesterday. Something worse than temporary outbreak of mob violence is the continuing conditions which afford cause and excuse for it.

If ravisher Jones had been lynched St. Louis would have had to confess with shame that it was a legitimate consequence of a failure of the regular machinery of law enforcement to accomplish the object for which it is established and maintained. The records of the criminal courts are replete with cases in which justice has been defeated through unwarrantable delay, trickery and corrupt influences. The case of the negro who was the object of the mob's vengeance affords a most pertinent considering that he had six names and a illustration of this fact. He had just been released from the penitentiary, where he had served a paltry term of two years for the grave offense for which an attempt was made to lynch him. In the very issue of the newspaper in which the account of the lynching attempt appeared was a list of cases in which offenders guilty of the grossest crimes were let off under pleas of guilty with petty jail and Work-house sentences. Brutal ravishers and murderers escape unishment through careless or inefficient prosecution or the pulls of powerful friends. The public has not had time to forget that a double indictment by the Grand-jury and a stern rebuke from the Judge on the bench was not sufficient to secure the prosecution of a criminal whom cuting Attorney, was unwilling to bring to trial.

Instances might be multiplied to show that the administration of criminal law THE ferocity of Julius Cæsar Burrows which made our criminal courts a reproach would become a warrior. It does not set for years still exists to obstruct justice and destroy public confidence. But when the people intrust the office of Prosecuting Attorney to a man whose unfitness and subserviency to political bosses had been demonstrated they should not be surprised if the failure of law enforcement some times drives mobs to take the law in their

PHARISAISM OR SURRENDER.

A few days before his election to the presidency Mr. Cleveland made a vigorous speech against debauching the suffrage, in which he declared that our government is "only true to the principles upon which it rests when in its operation it represents the honest and intelligent sentiments of the people. When it does not, its vigor and its very life are gone, and it remains but the mere semblance of a free government-the weakest and most deformed It will not be necessary to slay Senator plan of rule that ever deluded mankind. If he persists in forcing the appointment through the Senate he must be held guilty either of a pase piece of ante-election Pharisaism or a disgraceful surrender to the plutocratic corruption which he pledged himself to

GIRLS IN THE HOLDOVER.

The suggestion made by the Post-DISPATCH that better quarters be provided at the Four Courts for young girls and omen has met with a generous response from some charitable ladies who propos to follow it up and see what can be done.

The custom of putting girls, arrested perhaps for the first time, in the "holdover" cage in company with the very worst criminals, keeping them for hours where their ears are assailed with blasphemy and obscenity, and forcing them to associate with the most debased of their sex, is well calculated to make them vicious if they were not vicious before and is sure to make an impression on their minds which will follow them through life like a nightmare.

A reform in this matter is demanded by every instinct of humanity. Considers tions of utility are equally imperative because the morals of the city are in ques tion. The necessary changes and additions will not cost much and can be easily made. It is to be hoped that the officials will lend their aid to a movement so salutary and humane.

A HUMILIATING REVOLUTION.

Concerning the violation of the constiution now going on in the United States Senate Judge T. M. Cooley, one of the ablest constitutional lawyers in the country, writes:

If it is true that the majority cannot force vote, a revolution has in some manne been effected in the Government-it is no longer the Government our fathers created, but one so changed by one legislative body that a minority in that body may at pleasure defeat any legislative measure. I feel humiliated as an American citizen—more than that, I feel robbed of liberties that would the people. The Constitution is violated in not, so far as we can see, for once merely, but in a way that for all time leaves it at the mercy of a few persons.

These are plain words. A revolution has n some way been accomplished; the old rule which gave the majority the right to enact legislation has been set aside, and it now requires a unanimous vote to pass a bill through the Senate. A minority, no matter how small, has the power to block legislation, dictate terms of compromise and put back progress or improvement ac cording to its whim or interest. This is revolution. It alters the character of the Government, deprives the people of the benefit of their rights and places the country at the mercy of any hand of unscrupulous adventurers or freebooters who may wish to keep a law on the statute book

This question is more important than the repeal of the silver law or the reform of the tariff. The rule of the minority strikes at the very existence of self-government and popular rights. A group of individuals having got themselves elected to the Senate subordinate their public duties to their personal interests, and, instead of remaining inactive during the consideration of questions which may affect their private fortunes, as was the custom in the earlier history of the Government, set themselves up as dictators, clothed with power to preserve the privileges of special interests against the rights of the people. There are infinite possibilities in the situation which time will unfold. Such a revolution, however, can be made fruitful only by the cowardly acquiescence of the majority. The constitution and laws are of higher validity than the rules of the Senate under which this change has been brought about. It is only necessary for the majority to employ the constitutional means at their disposal. If the majority have the will they can find the way. If they are in earnest in their desire to vindicate the constitution and preserve the rights of the people they can put an end to the paradoxical pretense that a minority is worth as much for legislative purposes as a majority. The responsibility rests, after all, where it was placed by the gentlemen can stop at a boot-black and get cleaned up, which ladies cannot do, and ladies who are not in carriages are compolled to wear dirty shoes all day or until they get back home. Some one surely has the power and authority to stop this great nuisance and make thousands of our citizens happy daily. We are all and every one interested alike in this important matter, but what is every person's business is generally no one's. We must now take this thing in hand and go for the party in power to put a stop to muddy crossings; we had better have a little dust than so much muddy hu no necessity of either if managed right and proper and no cost to any one. Last year the writer lived on Lindell avenue and the crossings were made so wet and muddy he thought he would speak to the driver who sprinkled our block, who said he had no instructions to leave dry crossings. The writer findly agreed to pay him if he would leave our crossings dry, which he did, and we all found it a great comfort and it soon became a popular crossing.

Where Are the Street Inspectors? To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: St. Louis can boast of finer streets and pavements than any other city in the West but, sorry to say, wet and dirty crossings the year around, caused by neglect of some one in authority to instruct and compel the street sprinklers to leave all crossings dry for the space of six or eight feet, which would never get dusty, as the dampness from either side would keep them in line order. As it is the lazy drivers try how wet and muddy they can make crossings, and our fine white pavenents are kept muddy and dirty on the comers all the time.

render such power disceputable by exercising it in behalf of the unworthy—to wit: the poor.

It is not reasonable to suppose that all criminals of high social and religious standing can escape the strong arm of the law as did Almon Thomson, and for this reason the pardoning power is vested in the governors, and if one of the saints should be caught and brought before an ungodiy jury and found guilty, the persuasive influence of his friends with the Governor will rescue him from the dungeon and by a process of rewashing cleanse him from the crime and thus he is saved, an ornament to society. But a washerwoman—why, she will remain a washerwoman all her life—and there being an abundance of them, why should she be pardoned?—what claim has she on society?

And here is the filmsy excuse given by Gov. Altreid for pardoning this woman: "The father is in the penitentiary at Chester serving a life sentence, the mother is in the Joliet prison with her youngest child, now a little over 2 years old; the next child is now nearly 5 years old and is in the Poor-house and the crippled boy is being partially supported by charity. * The mother par

The Public School Studies. To the Editor of the Post- Dispatch:

I should like to say a few words through the columns of your much esteemed paper in schools. I quite agree with the remarks made in the article entitled "The Teacher's Lot" and signed by "leacher," published in Sunday's edition. She has stated right to the point the full situation. I am not a teacher, nor have any friends that are, but am interested in the cultivation of the young minds of this nineteenth century, and heartily indorse the statement set forth in her remarks in regard to the studies of the children. The idea of having a gymnasium (called physical culture) in the school room is absurd, as well as drawing and music. Give the children an idea of how the world lays, and how many times two times four are, and teach them to say "you" in preference to "you'se." That's what the children need in the common school branches and not accomplishments in so many unnecessary studies. chools. I quite agree with the remark them to say 'you'se.'' That's what the children need in the common school branches and not accomplishments in so many unnecessary studies. #### World's Fair Fares. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The passenger agents of the various railroads to Chicago have handled the business in a "tip top" manner ever since the open-ing of the World's Fair. Working the class ing of the World's Fair. Working the class of travel that could pay nearly a full fare, and then, as the crowd lessened and got "thin," dropping to a half rate, was good management. It seems to me that the cream of this half-rate travel will be almost entirely gathered by the 25th of the month. Now why is it not a good idea to give another class a chance to see the World's Fair. Suppose that from the 25th to the closs a frate be made, what happiness and pleasure the poorer class would derive, even if it don't pay the roads. Surely after the harvest they have had they could well afford to be a little bit charitable. I am sure that another reduction will scatter

FRANCE IS PLEASED A HERO OF THE WAR.

Sympathy Expressed by Russians on the Death of MacMahon.

GRATIFICATION OVER THE CZAR'S MES-SAGE TO CARNOT.

Frenchmen Now Feel More Confidence in the Stability of the Republic and the Strength of Their Army and Navy Than for Twenty Years-Does This Elation Menace the Peace of Europe?-

Paris, Oct. 18 .- The French newspaper publish long comments upon the sympathy expressed by the Russians at the death of Marshal MacMahon and seem greatly pleased

The Czar's message I thanks to President Carnot for the courses extended to the Russian satiors at Toulon and in Paris has also greatly pleased the newspapers of this and other cities of France and it may be said that France and Frenchmen feel more confident to-day in the stability of the Republic and in the strength of their army and navy than they have done for twenty years past. It will thus be seen that the visit of the Russians to France has had a decidedly question whether this will not precipitate the long expected European war. France is now herself again—hot-tempered, touchy. extra sensitive, chivalrous to a very high de-gree, proud of her army and navy, strong in her likes and dislikes, quick to resent an in-jury, whether real or fancied. Thus France is more dangerous to the peace of Europe than she was a week ago.

After all this is simmered down to bottom facts the wild, extravagant enthusiasm shown by the French people toward their guests means but one thing—the extreme de-ight France feels at the idea that Ressia is ready to fight with her, and not the satisfac-tion a nation would feel at the prospects of peace in the future. Fighting enthusiasm was displayed at Toulon and at Paris, the enthusiasm of 1870, when "a Berlin" rang from the Mediterranean to the British Channel, and from the Atlantic to the Prussian frontier; those people who went wild yester-day cheering "Vive la Russie" were in their hearts crying "Vive la revanche." And so, in spite of the Czar's warning, in spite of Carnot's orders, the spirit of war is stirring up the enthusiastic millions of France and urging them on to battle in spite was discharged. I weighed the day I was of their leaders. Behind all those toasts to the peace and prosperity of France was thinly concealed the toast to the brotherho in arms expected to exist between Russia and France when the war trumpet calls all Europe to arms. Those toasts were the toasts of war and not the toasts of peace, toasts of war and not the toasts of peace, and nobody knows this better than the cool, calculating, wakeful minds of Germany, Italy, Austria and England.

Some peaceful demonstrations are more dangerous than warlike outbursts. The enthusiasm shown by the French people is a clear-cut demonstration of this. It shows with what wild enthusiasm France would at a moment's notice go to war with Russia by her side. It shows the real feeling at the bottom of French hearts, and the European ships of state will need very careful handling in this cyclonic weather in order to avert a clash and one or more wrecks.

AFFAIRS AT HONOLULU. Honolulu, Oct. 11, via San Francisco, Oct. 18.-Rumors of political plots by the Royalists

It is believed here that Spreckies has formed an alliance with the Pacific Mail, whereby the latter company will not compete for Honolulu business. The Pacific Mail has raised its passenger rates to San Francisco 25 per cent ovor Spreckies' rates. The Home Secretary continuing, said that though home rule would always be kept in view by the Government, the next session of the House of Commons would be devoted to a realization of the Newcastle programme. Story of a Colonel on Gen. McClellan's Staff.

How He Saved President Lincoln From Capture and Death.

Secretary Wells Pronounced It One of the Greatest Acts of Heroism.

In the book, "Officers of the Army and Navy who Served in the Civil War," is a record of Col. Sillowaye, where it is shown that he saved President Lincoln from capture and perhaps instant death. We quote: "Wednesday, May 12, 1863, President Lincoln with friends from the North, went down to City Point on the Brooks, a transport vessel. The next day, when returning, the vessel was disabled near Point Tobacco, so as to be unable to proceed. As the Brooks was about to be boarded by the Confederates, Col. Sillowaye had the President placed in a boat and rowed to a place of safety on the Maryland shore of the Potomac River, and afterward taken to Washington." Secretary Wells wrote: "In a conference with the President and Secretary Stanton, in reference to your valuable services of Wednesday last you were promoted to the rank of Colonel and it is proposed to elevate you to the rank of chief engineer. We extend to you our heartfelt thanks. and believe us when we say we consider you to be as great a hero as any in the service, and special mention of service is ordered on record in both departments of

Col. Sillowaye himself tells a very interesting story:

I bought a bot-tle and when I had taken two-thirds of it I began to improve. I kept on taking it, improving all the time. I now weigh 130 pounds and feel like my old self again. "You can put it in your paper that I at-tribute my good health to nothing but Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and herve remedy. I am perfectly satisfied that it saved my life. I am 60 years of age, but, as you can see for yourself, I am as active as a man of 40 and can do a good day's work, as people here well know. My friends in Boston, New York and otter places are surprised at my recovery. Indeed, I am surprised myself to be so well. I advise everybody afflicted to buy and try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy at once."

At this season of the year we advise the use of this wonderful health restorer. It is by all odds the best medicine ever discovered and immediately hydrograps the covered, and immediately hylgorates the blood, strengthens the nerves and restores healthy action of all the organs.

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is as harmless as it is good, and it is purely vegetable. It sells at $1 per bottle. WRECK OF THE MIOWERA. Beautiful Vessel.

HONOLULU, Oct. 11, via San Francisco, Oct 8.-The Canadian-Australian steamship Miowera lies a complete wreck at the mouth of Honolulu harbor. She was sighted on Oct. 2a little after sunset, and within fiftyfive minutes she struck heavily upon a reef at the entrance of the harbor. Capt. Scott had not waited for a pilot to board his vessel. Almost as soon as she struck a tug was sent out by the Government with the agent of the steamship line abroad. Efforts were made that night to pull her off, but they were unavailing. When the accident hap were unavailing. When the accident happened the paisengers were still asleed and up to the hour they were removed, two days later, no excitement occurred on the steamer. It was expected that they would float her the text day, but this proved illusive, as the wisel was digging her way into the soft coral reef. Next day she righted and sat in the though she had plowed after swinging broadside upon the reef. There she will remain until wreckers remove her. These are expected down by the steamer Mariposa, to leave San Francisco on the 19th inst.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS, Oct. 18.—It was the same story to-day. More school children and more fun for them. There were over 60,000 of the children on the grounds yester day and they enjoyed the day as only chil-dren can. To-day they came in increased numbers and overrun the gatekeepers. The committee of ladies having in charge the arrangements for an outing of the newsboys and bootblacks are meeting with success. They will meet down town to morrow at 8 o'clock and come to the Fair on two special trains on the illinois Central road. They will be provided with Ferris wheel badges which will pass them through the turnstiles free.

There is every indication that American Day at the Fair will be second only to Chicago Day. From reports received from Gotham, it is estimated that over 100,000 New York people will arrive here to celebrate. Mayor Gilroy is expected to arrive at the Fair tomorrow and will at once meet the New York State Commissioners and make the final arrangements for the exercises. The speechmaking will take place in Festival Hall, which will accommodate many thousand people. The opening prayer will be offered by Dr. Morgan Dix. Maror Carter Harrison is down for the speech of welcome. He will be responded to by Mayor Gilroy of New York. Addresses will also be made by Gen. Horace Porter, Dr. Chauncey M. Depew, Charles S. Smith and Seth Low. Hon. Boucke Cockran is nere assisting in the completion of the programme, and will likely remain for the celebration. In case he does he will be urged to make a speech. There will pronounce the benediction. It is intended to add other features to the programme. The speeches are intended to be short so as to allow visitors time to attend the exercises and see something of the Fair. Special Hanhattan day souvenir tickets and badges have been prepared. GOUNOD DEAD.

The Eminent Composer Passed Away at

Paris, Oct. 18.-Charles Francois Gound the composer, was stricken with apoplexy mained unconscious until this morning when death came. Gounod was born in this city in 1817. He studied at the Conservative under Halevy, Lesueur and Pauer, and after important work was "Faust," written in wards pursued his studies in Italy. His first important work was "Faust," written in 1859, which raised him at once to a high rank among composers. Other operas followed this production, the most important being "Mireille," "Romeo et Juliette," "Cing Wars" and "Polyeacto." Among his latest compositions are his oratorios, "Redemption," "Mars et Vita," and a muss for 'the Joan d'Arc festival.

M. Gounod's health had been quite poor for several years. Two years ago he was prostrated by overwork and his friends were much alarmed owing to his advanced years. He had ortginally an unusually robust constitution and it was due to this fact alone that he was able to endure the arduous labor to which he subjected himself. "Love, work and friendship are the only real things on earth," he was accustomed to say, and love, work and friendship were the keynotes of his whole life. "We must kill time lest it kill us. We have time to rest through all eternity." was another one of his phrases. Life without work simply meant death to his indefatigable genius.

the Custom-House. A strong effort is to be made to improve the condition of the federal building. Appeal after appeal has been made to the De partment of the Interior at Washington to supply funds for needed improvements, but so far without success. To-day the ers supplying steam cannot be heated before Nov. 1.

Other complaints are in reference to the water-pipes, the force required to keep the building clean, and the force necessary to run the elevators. The entire building is in an exceedingly dirty condition, owing to the fact that a very inadequate janitor's force is employed. The water pipes are constantly bursting and are doing great and permanent damase to the building. Until this year two elevators have always been in operation, but, although the business done in the building has largely increased, there is at present only one running, and repeated applications for an allotment for the purpose of operating the second elevator have been refused. Coi. Daton has determined to visit Washington, and to make a personal appeal for an allowance adequate for the requirements of the building.

Leo XIII., Pope-To Our Beloved Son, Jame Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore: Health and apostolic benediction. In the month of October next recurs the auspicious day on which, five and twenty vears ago, you were raised to the episcopal dignity. We, therefore, are prompted both by your devoted attachment to us and by our affectionate regard for you to express the feelings of heartiest congratuation, wherewith we welcome this occasion that is no less joyous for us than it is for you.

A GENTLEMAN AND SCHOLAR.

Personally, he is very affable and gentie in his manners, and until his duties became so burdensome, and the calls upon his time so great, was always approachable. No one had any need to send a card or give a name then. There was no formality nor condescension about him, and every one who had a question to ask might always be assured of an opportunity to ask it and get a courteous answer. The Cardinal is to-day as affable, as courteous and sentie in manner as before he became the Primate of the Church, but this new dignity, which neither increased his authority nor swelled his purse, has added very materially to his labors and the demands upon him.

The Cardinal was born in Baltimore, July 73, 1834. When a lad he was taken by his father to Ireland, and on his return, having received an academic training, entered St. Charles College. Here he was graduated A GENTLEMAN AND SCHOLAR.

Cardinal Gibbons was assisted in the mass by the following: Very Rev. A. L. Magnien, S. S., President of St. Mary's Seminary; Assistant; Priest Rev. J. Waiter and L. Lee, both of Washington, deacons of honor; Rev. George Devine of Baltimore, deacon of mass; Rev. A. J. McAlian of Montreal was master of ceremonies.

The following is the congratulatory letter of the Holy Father to the Cardinal. It was read by Father Rooker:

And while we render thanks to Almighty God, who has hitherto had you in His holy keeping, we humbly beseech him in his goodness to grant you the privilege which He has this year mercifally vouches fed to us—of celebrating the golden jubilee of our episcopate.

In the meantime we send you memorial of this gracious anniversary, intending it likewise as a token of our carnest good will to ward you. We moreover invoke upon you every blessing for your happiness and welfare, and lovingly impart to you, your clear and the faithful intrested to your watchful carcury for the sound of the sound to the sixteenth of our pontificate.

James Cardinal Glibbons, in whose honor the celebration is to be held, is a small man, whose unassuming manners and modest reserve would give no indication to the passer-by of the dignity he holds in the church or the influence he wields upon thousands of people. One could scarcely notice him in the passing throng, so quickly does he stride along, and so modestly.

He rarely raises his eyes save when his attention is attracted by the salutation of some acquaintance, and then the greeting is as courteously returned. Nothing is his attire gives any indication of his rank, save that his frock coat is a trifle longer and his stove-nipe hat a trifle higher, and both apparently somewhat more worn than in case of the ordinary individual. If the passer-by turned around he might catch a glimpse of the Cardinal's cap protruding just allittle below his stove-pipe, and the back of the Cardinal's necktic obtrusively working its way above the coat collar, walking cane is his usual companion, which he uses energetically to help propel him along. Ascetic in his eating, and regular in his mode of living the Cardinal is, despite his fitty-nine years, his arduous duties and delicate responsibilities, a hearty, ithe, young man, who can walk faster and farther than those who have thus far challenged him, he is an agreeable companion on a walk, but is generally unaccompanied, as few persons after one experience cares to indulye in a second walking match.

As telegraphed yesterday, young Fair, who is the son of ex-senator Fair of California, married the woman last Friday, with a hackney coachman as his best man.

Ex-Senator Fair is one of the quartette of bonanza kings who developed the famous Comstock silver mines. His wealth is estimated at $20,000,000. About ten years ago he separated from his wife, the daughters remaining with their mother, while the boys were ostensibly under their father's care. The boys would brook little or no restraint and became known as the wildest of the wild sets of New York and San Francisco. Shortly after Jessie's marriage Mrs. Fair died, leaving $1,000,000 to each of the boys, with the proviso that they could not control the principal until they attained the age of $5 or 80 years. They were to be allowed an income of $1,000 per month each. The bulk of the estate was divided between the girls. The boos said they had been treated unjustly, and some years ago a contest was begun in the courts to set aside the provisions of the will, but after the death of James the contest was dropped. Attorney Zachritz sprang to his feet and said that he was gentieman enough to keep any promise that he would make. What he had said to Mr. Johnson was that he would not try the Bernard case until the Beard case was disposed of, but that did not relieve Mr. Johnson's client of the obligation of being present in court every time his case was called.

Judge Edmunds settled the dispute by laying both cases over until 2 p. m., at which time Mr. Johnson was expected to have his client present.

Ex-Gov. Francis Mentioned as Rolla Wells's Successor, but May Not Accep t. A special meeting of the St. Louis Agrithat the question of filing the vacancy caused by the resignation of President Rolla Wells will be considered. President Rolla Wells will be considered. The name of ex-Gov. D. R. Francis has been prominently mentioned for the place, and it may be tendered him. Considerable doubt is felt, however, as to whether he would accept. The position is by no means a sinecure, and he is a very busy man. Ex-Gov. Francis was not in the city to-day, as he had not yet returned from Chicago, to which city he went several days ago.

the defunct First National Bank by Receiver Cockrell. The report shows the liabilities of the institution to have been reduced $275,000, $53,664.51 of which is a cash balance now in the hands of the Comptroller, sufficient to declare a 20 per cent dividend. When the bank closed the deposits were $205,140.22, of which $39,584.65 were individual deposits; $82,025.25 public deposits; $6,377.72 due national banks, and $17,142.59 due other banks and bankers. Its total book liabilities were $481,952.65, while its contested liabilities, made up chiefly of "wild-cat" paper not on the books, was $269,019.21. The bank has already canceled $54,660.65 of these liabilities by offsets, is which amount is included the public deposits covered by Government bonds, and has discharged contingent liabilities, which included rediscounts and collaterals put up to secure bills payable, to the amount of $128,026.92. Out of the remaining assets there may be realized enough to reduce the liabilities another $100,000 more, though the majority of them are believed to be utterly worthless. Mayor of this city and candidate for re-election, at 10 o'clock this morning assaulted and knocked down N. J. Dilday, editor of the Lowest-Priced House in America for Fine Stendard. The cause was an article that appeared in this morning's paper, reflecting severely on Mr. Yelser, charging him with duplicity and double dealing. A warrant was at once sworn out charging Mr. Yelser with assault. DIAMONDS. Diamond lace pins ..... 15 to 1,200 900 Diamond studs.... 150 DO NOT OVERLOOK Plamond collar buttons 5 to 150

The animals and fowls in Felhauer's place have been an attraction for the children in the neighborhood for some time past and Felhauer states that the children became vory annoying to him and his stock in trade. He decided to adopt some means of dispersing the crowds of children congregating about the place and he chose his rattan switch, which he used on dogs in training them. Several days ago a crowd of children, one of whom was Harvey Patton, was watching the pets in Felhauer's store when the old man rushed out at them, switch in hand. They all escaped but little Harvey. He came under the switch and Felhauer struck him a haif dozen times across the back and shoulders. The boy was in court this morning, and he had six large welts on his back from the lash. Judge Morris naed him $10, and the old man was remanded to the lock-up.

Slattery and Johnson as Bondsmen. J. Brooks Johnson, the money broker, one of the bondsmen of the Gnarantee Investment by the Federal Grand-jury at Chicago, explained yesterday how he furnished the $100,000 security required by the statute passed last July. He said that he was approached by Gen. J. M. Lewis and G. S. Hoss and aereed to get the security for a consideration of $2,000. Johnson, W. H. Stevenson and D. P. Slattery put up the security, according to the money broker's statement, on condition that they be allowed to control the management and select the treasurer. Before-Johnson went on the bond he consulted Smith & Harrison, attorneys, and Judge John W. Harrison, attorneys, and Judge John W. The National Turf Congress Scheme in the East.

BREWSTER'S IDEA WAS NOT LOOKED UPON WITH MUCH PAVOR.

Short-Sighted Policy Adopted by the Eastern Race-Track Magnates-Frank Shaw's New Track Across the River Money Wen by the Cash Prize Riders This Season. Secretary J. E. Brewster of Washington

Park Jockey Club, who has spent a month or more in the East discussing his favorite plan of a national turf congress with Eastern turfmen, has returned home without having received any encouragement. Under the present condition of affairs a national turf congress would mean about as much as a dry gress. It would either be a trust for the mak ing of more money by track-owners, or it would be as powerless to act of itself as are Mr. Croker's New York City Aldermen. Mr. Brewster thinks such an organization would promote harmony in the East, where four tracks united to form a Board of Control, and out of these four one gropped away, and the celebrated Kilkenny cats. If four associations could not hold together, how could the twenty odd associations East and West be expected to be harmonious? Another argument used by Mr. Brewster is that forfeits could be more easily collected under the proposed system. The simplest way to collect forfeits is to make the association pay the full stakes to the owner of the horse and then collect the forfeits itself. Why shouldn't the association pay these stakes? They advertise themselves as giving $25,000 and $50,000 stakes, when in reality the stakes are not worth in actual cash half of these amounts. In addition, the winning horse is handicapped and weighted in future races because of this money which his owner only receives in the shape of worthless orfeits. The owner has neither the time nor the opportunity, nor perhaps the inclination to hunt up his debtors and to trot about a race-track with a bundle of bills under his arm like a tailor's collector. The associatiod could collect these forfeits easily, and if it had to pay out the hard cash it would very soon devise meads to reduce the forfeit list to very meager proportions.

"The exact location of Frank Shaw's new mile track across the river will be settled within the next twenty-four hours," said Charlie Spink, who stands very close to the St. Paul man, this morning. "Shaw and his backers, including the South Park management, look upon the Denverside property with much favor, and if satisfactory terms can be arranged with the owners of the ground the new track, which will be erected under the supervision of my brother Al, who built the night track, will inaugurate a winter meeting Dec. 10. In addition to Denverside two other convenient pieces of property, on which a mile track can be quickly put up, have been offered Mr. Shaw. As he is determined to run a meeting in this vicinity this winter, which will have an equal chance of holding its own with the present East Side game, it can readily be seen how rosy the chances are for a new track in East St. Louis. Yes, sir, it can be relied upon Shaw will have a track of his own running across the river before the middle of Christmas month, and it will be as convenient to this city as any one could desire. The St. Paul man has all the financial backing he wants in the scheme."

Affred Lakeland has sold his wonderfully speedy yearling filly by Darebin—Guenn to his brother, William Lakeland. The price is reported to be $10,000. The Bashford Manor stables has also sold the 5-year-old bay horse Gascon, by Falsetto, dam Mollie Wood, to B. J. Johnson of Chicago for $5,000.

The long suffering book makers turned on their ancient enemy, Johnny Mccafferty, and through one of their number ran up Fatality $2,500 above her selling pric at Linden last Monday. McCafferty bough her in. It cost him just $2,100 for having won.

MITCHELL AS AN ACTOR. The Englishment Will Impersonate the

Pugilistic Gladiator. If Mitchell defeats Corbett he will have a play written for him, the outlines of which he has had offered him by the author. Unlike Suilivan and Corbett, he will not attempt any melodramatic business, but will act right out on the stage. He will present the character of a Roman gladiator—not one who fights with a two-foot sword, but one who is expert with his first or the cestus—a puglistic gladiator, in other words.

Twenty-five hundred people witnessed the bantam-battle at the New Orleans Olympic Club last night between Jack Levy of England and Jim Gorman of New Yark. It was anybody's fight until after the seventh round, Levy depending on clinches and infighting and Gorman on hard punching. In the eighth Levy received a clean knock-out blow from Gorman's right. Neither man was hurt much.

WINNING CASH PRIZE RIDERS.

Harry Wheeler Leads With Over $3,000 to His Credit.

Now that the racing season is practically over there is a chance to review the work of the National Cycling Association in its effort to establish professional bicycle racing as a legitimate sport. Probably no event in connection with any sport has met with the same opposition and so much unkind critisame opposition and so much unkind criticism from those who pretended to be anxious to boom the sport of bicycle racing. It has cost the association a good round sum—$12,770—to establish the scheme this summer, and the projectors are satisfied with the outcome. They will be in the field next season earlier than they were this year. The list of winnings of the cyclists show Wheeler far in the lead, with $3,000 to his credit. Berle comes next with $1,270; Dornige, $1,005; Rich, $255; Kluge, $505; Ashinger, $255; Alexet, $270; Newhouse, $500, and Kanoaha, $425. The

After the races at Waverly, Ill., yesterday, Walle Wright of St. Louis went for the half mile record of 1:20, and when he had finished the new record stood at 1:18%. The St. Louis boys captured three firsts and two seconds, the cream of the prizes. Grath and Lewis of the Pastimes were the only St. Louis boys to ride. JOE WILL NEVER DO.

Quinn Is Not a Suitable Man for a Captain According to Sam Crane.

There are very few players in the profeson to-day who have the natural qualifications for a successful captain. If they are the most capable players and understand the game in every point, there is usually some fault of disposition which counteracts all their other capabilities. This was the very trouble that made Quinn of the St. Louis team almost a nonentity as far as authority went, says Sam Crane, the exsecond baseman, who was a member of the old "Mets." He played poor ball, was weak at the bat, and in consequence lost what little nerve he was blessed with at the start. He was soon superseded by some other player in fact, if not in name. Brodle was fortunate enough to be playing great ball. He batted strongly, ran bases well and was given unlimited praise by the public and newspapers. Brodle had been in the business long enough not to be attacked with the "big head," but he was, nevertheless, and he soon began to give orders and to call the players down even more than the Captain. In a short time the team was completely disorganized. Manager Watkins saw where the trouble was and sold the disorganizer to Baltimore. His release caused a storm of indignation in the Mound City, and Watkins was berated, but he was right, and the team showed improved play after that. Quinn is not a suitable man for a captain, however. He loses his nerve too quick, especially if he plays poorly himself, and he has dot those fighting qualities which put life and vim into his team. unteracts all their other capabilities.

CUT HIS THROAT. Robert Kirkpatrick Attempts Suicide to

Avoid Arrest Robert Kirkpatrick, a sewing machine agent, who resides at 900 Bond avenue, East St. Louis, was arrested late last night on a warrant for forgery, and attempted suicide while the officers were in waiting to take him to prison. Six months ago he was arrested for embezzlement, and at that time he gashed his throat with suicidal intent. He was recently in the employ of the Singer Sewing Machine Agency at Carlinville, Macoupin Co., Ill. His accounts becoming entangled, and he being unable to extricate himself, he was finally arrested, after being several times threatened with prosecution unless he settled up. He came to East St. Louis without squaring matters at Carlinville, and it was here that he was arrested. For several days previous to his arrest he had been ill, and when the officers took him in custody he asked to be allowed to enter an outhouse in his yard. An officer stood guard outside while he was in the outhouse, and finally opened the door, as Kirkpatrick failed to come out. The policeman was startled to find the man lying on the floor with his throat cut The gash was not a bad one, and Kirkpatrick son recovered. He also escaped prosecution. Several days ago a Carlinville officer came to East St. Louis with a warrant for Kirkpatrick, but the latter was not to be found. The warrant charged him with forging the name of Peter Camp of Carlinville to a note for $62.59. Last night the police learned that Kirkpatrick was at home, and officers Fahey and Mansfield were sent to arrest him. The man was found in bed, and he requested the officers to wait outside the door of his room while he was dressing. They did so and the man took advantage of the opportunity to cut his throat. Using the same hife he cut a three-inch gash in the right side of his neck in the same place where he had slashed himself before. The wound was not a serious one, and after it had been bandaged the prisoner was removed to the police station. Kirkpatrick is 74 years old and has a family. ANY GOOD DEVICE WILL DO.

President McMath of the B. F. I. Gives Information About Smoke Abatement. A number of complaints have been made recently to the Board of Public Improvements that the provisions of the smoke ordinance relative to the tests; to be made of smokeconsuming devices impose a hardship upon many parties who wish to conform to the law. They have, they claim, devices which they can use, but which have never been which they can use, but which have never been tested by the smoke commission, because the expenses attending a test, $400, are more than they can afford to expend.

They go further then and draw the inference that any device which has not been tested and given satisfactory results, and which has not, as they think, been "approved" by the Board of Public Improvements will be rejected by the smoke inspectors.

proved. by the Board of Public Improvements will be rejected by the smoke inspectors.

It is only a party or a corporation that has money back of its patented device that can afford, they claim, to have a test made, and in consequence many devices patented and protected which are equally meritorious stand no show of being introduced because the public impression is they have no standing with the Board of Public Improvements. President McMath of the Board of Public Improvements, who was one of the original committee appointed some years ago to draft the smoke ordinance, said this morning that many of these opinions and impressions were erroneous and that the general public did not understand the provisions of the ordinance. "A manufacturer or any one using a boiler or producing smoke can use any device he sees fit provided it prevents the 'emission into the open air of dense black or thick gray smoke within the corporate limits of the city." He is not compelled to have the device tested, nor must he necessarily use a device that has been tested. He must only conform to the above provision of the ordinance and the board does not care a whit how he does it."

But does the board not approve the de-

the board does not care a whit how he does it."

"But does the board not approve the devices tested by the smoke Commission when satisfactory results are obtained?"

"The board does not approve of anything. It simply 'accepts' the report and publishes it for the information of the public. To show that this is the case the board not only publishes the tests where the results are satisfactory, but alse those where they are unsatisfactory. It has power to 'reject' only such tests as are unfairly and unjustly made."

"Then a manufacturer who uses a device which has been tested and given satisfactory results has no immunity from prosecution for a violation of the ordinance?"

"Certainly not. If his smokestacks emit dense black or thek gray smoke he is amenable to the law if he had a dozen devices in operation."

"Then where is the advantage of having a test made which costs $400?"

"If the device tested is worth anything—if it will accompish what is claimed for it—the Smoke Commission gives it an indorsement to that effect and enhances its market value. But neither the Smoke Commission pressits under all circumstances. They publish the results of the tests made for public information only, and the man using ittakes the risk when he applies it to the condition of his particular furnaces. By having a test made the owner of the device simply gets the written opinion of authorized experts on the subject. Nothing more.

Mr. McMath went on to say that there were numberless steam_jet devices on the market which were bostitvely worthless. They will not accompish what is claimed for them. There must be a combination of air with the steam to complee the combustion and destroy the smoke.

"There is nothing to prevent anyone," he said, "from sing these devices. If they prove satisfactory the Smoke Inspectors cannot interfer, whether they have been tested or not. Tiere is no unjust discrimination made in the provisions of the ordinance on this point."
